

The Dragon Whisperer Newsletter

Summer - 2011

[Summer 2011]

Summer – two words - Hot and dry. Whatever theory you subscribe to, the fact that this summer was hotter and drier than normal due to global warming. Most of the US has suffered drought conditions and there have been many more tornados. The only place that has been cooler and pleasant has been in Washington State, very curious! The Elves must responsible for this.

There are some good things about the summer season. The summer flowers, watching the animals, seeing baby animals growing up, wild berries, fresh garden vegetables and fruits, trees and bushes that are a beautiful shade of green.

Sigh, Fall will be with us before we know it.

Events

My Monitor Died

Well, it finally happened. My monitor on my main PC decided to give up the ghost. It was a 18" LCD Flat screen that allowed me to watch HD TV programs via my Slingbox. I've already done some research for a replacement unit. LG has some real nice widescreen LED LCD super thin monitors. A 22 or 23 inch wide HD screen should be what I need.

Sigh, I've got to save my nickels and dimes to be able to get one. In the meantime, I'll have to use a 14" medium resolution flat LCD that I keep as a backup. Also, I thinking about replacing my DVD burner with a Blue Ray burner.

Political Stuff

The GOP needs a candidate that can make Resident Obama a one term White House resident. I've been a bit disappointed in most of the candidates.

Doctors

Have you ever wondered why doctors prescribe certain medicines? I can't believe that doctors don't bother to check to see what the side effects of drugs they prescribe. Also, why don't doctors treat causes rather than symptoms? And, then they have to prescribe more drugs to take care of the side effects of the other drugs. Sigh, it's no wonder the drug companies are raking in such huge profits!

Reading List for the Quarter

Bearers of the Black Staff

Author: Terry Brooks

The Cleric Quintet

Author: R.A. Salvatore

Blood Work

Author: Kim Harrison

Next Newsletter

Date: Fall 2011

Maybe in October.